Paving Is Approved by Board

Hope city directors last night approved a street paving project for Brannan street calling for city-property owner participation. Work is expected to begin in the near future.

The project calls for paving 75 cents per running foot for each property owner with the city paying the balance of the cost.

A second project, including curb and gutter on South Grady street inside the Southland Heights Addition was tentatively approved. This project also calls for city property-ownership participation. The cost is $1.50 per running foot to the property owner, with the city bearing the balance of the cost.

Final approval of the South Grady street plan is expected as soon as additional signatures

Guerrilla Stronghold Attacked

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
SAIGON (AP) — A beefed-up regiment of some 2,000 South Vietnamese hit a guerrilla stronghold in the Mekong Delta today with a combined ground, helicopter and parachute assault.

The plunge into the marshlands below the delta city of Can Tho ran into sporadic firing but no immediate major contacts.

The Communists killed two Americans and wounded 45 with a mortar attack on the Chu Lai airstrip. They blew a large hole in the bottom of a British tanker in Nha Trang harbor, setting U.S. frogmen the nasty task of combing every ship in the basin for hidden mines. They found nothing.

The delta airborne assault was aimed at a guerrilla regiment which defectors said was operating in the area. The South Vietnamese swept into and around the area with some 600 paratroopers, helicopter-borne troops, local militia and a screening force in armored personnel carriers.

South Vietnamese headquarters said the assault force suffered very light casualties from sniper fire. A spokesman said two Viet Cong were killed and two captured in the initial assault and the attack force was attempting to close with the main Viet Cong force.

The Communist attack on the 12,734-ton tanker Amastira early today set off frenzied counter-measures in crowded Nha Trang harbor. The stern of the ship slowly settled to the bottom in 60 feet of water.

The tanker was moored in the harbor area where flexible pipelines take off fuel. Luckily, a spokesman said, the ship had discharged most of her 12,000-ton load, and only the after compartments were flooded.

A spokesman said it was believed the ship could be salvaged. The explosion from outside the ship blew a hole 4 by 6 feet below the waterline.

While the Communists have detonated such blasts with mines set by frogmen, they normally work with crude mines which are dragged beneath ships by long ropes. The Amastira is one of the biggest ships hit since the Communists blew a hole in the bottom of the 9,800-ton U.S. aircraft transport ship Card in Saigon in May 1964. The Card sank but was later raised.

to the petition is completed. City directors last night postponed action on the proposed $500,000 master street improvement program on main thoroughfares and heavily traveled streets, awaiting a recommendation from the Planning and Zoning commission.

The commission is expected to meet April 18, and then bring a recommendation to the city directors suggesting priorities for a system of arteries.

Such a project, without federal aid, would mean the levying of a five-mill property tax and a city-wide vote on the proposal.

Prisoners Continue to Strike

CUMMINS PRISON FARM, Ark. (AP) — About 80 inmates continued their sit-down strike here Tuesday night and Prison Supt. O. E. Bishop said he had made no attempt to force the prisoners to end the protest.

He said there was not enough room to place all the inmates in solitary confinement and he didn't want to use the strap on them.

"I'm kind of planning with them now," Bishop said, "Maybe they'll surrender after awhile." Bishop said the inmates, who are protesting prison food and working conditions, were being furnished bread and water.

Truck Back Hauling to Market

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trucks began hauling the nation's goods to market again today after a national contract agreement with the Teamsters Union ended a three-day industry lockout.

The three-year contract including an estimated 50-cent wage hike must still be ratified by 450,000 workers in some 12,000 trucking firms, but Teamsters General Vice President Frank Fitzsimmons urged the industry to immediately "get our people back to work."

Details of the pact were not announced.

Agreement by Trucking Employers Inc. got trucks rolling again within hours after the 1 a.m. settlement and was expected to end scattered panic buying, mass layoffs in some industries and a nationwide scare of growing shortages of many commodities.

Trucking Employers Inc. had called the lockout by some 1,500 of the nation's biggest firms in response to a rash of small Teamsters strikes that involved a few hundred men in a dozen or so cities.

"We are calling off our defensive shutdown," M. M. Gordon, president of TEI, said after the group's board of directors had met nearly three and a half hours.

"We are notifying all our associations and carriers around the country, requesting that they go back to work," Gordon said.

Denounce British in Rhodesia Stand

CAIRO (AP) — A five-nation African summit conference denounced Britain Thursday night for not using force in Rhodesia, saying that was the only way to end Prime Minister Ian Smith's white minority regime.

The conference's communique also called on Britain to withdraw all its forces from the South Arabian Peninsula, where nationalist violence has steadily increased this week during the visit of a U.N. mission. The British blame President Camal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic for the violence.

The communique was signed by Nasser, President Houari Boumedienne of Algeria, President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania, President Mokhtar Ould Daddah of Mauritania, and Guinea National Assembly Speaker Leon Macka, representing absent President Sekou Toure.

In advance of the conference's first formal session late this afternoon, the foreign ministers reached preliminary agreement on a preamble to the final conference declaration calling for economic integration of Latin America and creation of a common market. The preamble also expressed U.S. endorsement and a pledge to support it.

Even this draft — a synthesis of Brazilian and U.S. proposals plus several dozen amendments — was heading into shoals. Representatives of a number of nations said they wanted another look at it before giving their final approval.

Latin Meet Makes Some Headway

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Special Correspondent
PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — The Inter-American summit conference appeared to be making some headway today as President Johnson and Latin American chiefs of state prepared to open debate on the economic future of Central and South America and the role the United States will play in it.

In advance of the conference's first formal session late this afternoon, the foreign ministers reached preliminary agreement on a preamble to the final conference declaration calling for economic integration of Latin America and creation of a common market. The preamble also expressed U.S. endorsement and a pledge to support it.

Even this draft — a synthesis of Brazilian and U.S. proposals plus several dozen amendments — was heading into shoals. Representatives of a number of nations said they wanted another look at it before giving their final approval.

Despite four days of preliminary discussion, the foreign ministers were obliged for lack of agreement to leave the toughest issues for their chiefs to deal with. President Johnson was faced by Latin-American demands which he has to resist because he lacks blanket approval from the U.S. Congress to increase U.S. commitments to the southern part of the hemisphere.

The United States, while strongly supporting the move for gradual creation of a common market, also is pushing the idea that if Latin America is to emerge into the 20th century free of violent revolution, it must be largely a do-it-yourself proposition.

A number of Latin-American nations have been demanding that the United States give preferential treatment to their goods in the U.S. market and that Washington permit the use of Alliance for Progress dollars in the world market, rather than restrict them to purchases in the United States. With its unfavorable balance of payments problem, the United States cannot bow to these demands.

A U.S. government source has said that Johnson's individual talks with the Latin-American presidents will probably be more important than the formal summit sessions. The U.S. President spent a busy day Tuesday.

Significantly, Johnson went to the headquarters of President Raul Leoni of Venezuela and talked with him for an hour and 20 minutes, more time than he devoted to private conversation with any of the other chiefs of state.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

In 1737, Benjamin Franklin was deputy postmaster in America. By 1753, he was made postmaster general for the colonies, says The World Almanac. As the revolution approached, Franklin became increasingly involved in anti-British activities and was summarily dismissed by the king of England on Jan. 30, 1774. Later, however, the Second Continental Congress restored Franklin to the post.

Why Does George Check Outstanding Claims Daily?

He doesn't have to. Most agents don't. Many agents simply mail loss reports to the Company and forget them. They think by some magic formula all will turn out well. George knows it doesn't work that way. He knows that in spite of good intentions of the Company to pay promptly, sometimes things can go wrong. A report might be lost in the mail, a doctor's bill isn't mailed, needed estimates aren't furnished by the claimant, the insured misses an appointment with the adjuster. George figures he is paid to take care of all the details, and to follow through on every claim. So he does, every day.

Regular School Checks For Fire Hazards Urged

School officials were urged today by the American Insurance Association to check to be sure inspections of school properties for fire hazards are being made regularly.

The Association provides inspection blanks especially designed for regular checking of hazards in schools.

A good rule is for inspection to be made each month by the custodian and a member of the faculty. They should check exit doors and locks, fire escapes, extinguishers, heating equipment and other installations to be sure they are in top working order, and make sure that odd corners, such as spaces under stairs, are free from accumulations of waste paper, rubbish, old furniture, stage scenery and other combustibles.

The custodian should fill out the inspection blank and file it with the Board of Education or School Commissioners.

Once every three months, a member of the local fire department should accompany the custodian and the member of the faculty on the inspection tour.

If hazards are found, they should be eliminated at once.

Monthly and quarterly inspections of this type, the Association says, help to keep schools fire safe.

Tonite's your last chance to enjoy the exciting drama about today's young people and their problems, "The Idol" with Jennifer Jones. One parents should be sure to see.

Tomorrow Elvis will be here in "Easy Come, Easy Go" with song, romance, and fun, it's one of his better films. We feel that Elvis is a top young man of today. He served in the armed forces without delay or fanfare. He came back, passed up the quick dollar in TV. His pictures have been wholesome entertainment for everyone. With all of his wealth he has not forgotten his old friends, his family, or the Southern towns that helped start him. He has never married... but no scandal of any kind has ever been whispered about him... not even by the columnists who live on that kind of stuff!

Also, don't miss "Born Free" the fine film from the prize winning novel, at the Dixie this week end. This is a film every parent should take their children to see... and it will be hard to say which will enjoy it the most. IT'S GREAT... a story of a lion cub raised by people and their problems with it... On the same program is "Lassies Great Adventure" Makes this a must see program... just take our word for it.

Sunday-Monday at the Saenger is Disney's fine Action film, "Fighting Prince of Donegal".

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It is hard to say whether there was greater suspense built up Monday night over the winners of the top Oscars or whether television would be able to share the ceremonies with millions of viewers.

The doubt about the latter ended about 90 minutes before the big annual bash of the motion picture industry was to start. ABC, between "The Iron Horse" and "Rat Patrol," signaled the strike of the performers' union was over by stating firmly that the show would start on time at 10 p.m.

When it did, we buckled into two and one-half solid hours of star-gazing.

Bob Hope as usual pulled the program together with wit and good humor. The production numbers were lavish and performed by talented people — almost talented enough to disguise the generally undistinguished caliber of most of the songs nominated.

For the woman viewer, much of the fun involved inspecting the clothes on parade. It is obvious that around Hollywood no woman will venture out after dark unless her gown is covered with bangles, sequins or feathers, or at least moves in a swirl of chiffon.

Most moving moment from the living-room seat was the appearance of Patricia Neal, that fine actress now recovering from a series of crippling strokes, who was greeted by a standing ovation.

Selection of the British production, "A Man for All Seasons" as best film and of its star, Paul Scofield, as best actor was greeted with the same roars of approval given the announcement that Elizabeth Taylor had won the best actress Oscar for "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

Two hours, however, is a long time to wait for announcements of awards in which the general public is most interested.

One remarkable circumstance was that, for the first time in Oscar history, nobody broke down and wept for joy. That reaction is now the exclusive possession of television beauty contest winners.

Now that the AFTRA strike is over and the Academy Awards show is history, television can start putting together the

REBUTTAL FROM THE DISTAFF SIDE

Dear Helen: Men have been criticizing women long enough. Here's my rebuttal to your husband's "A Wife Is..."

A husband is a man who:

... Calls you and tells you he will be home at 5:30, arrives at 7:30 and wonders why the food is cold.

... Says he wants you to try different recipes, then screams in mortal pain when the exotic ingredients play havoc with the budget.

... Spends all night watching the late show when he KNOWS he must get up early in the morning.

... Turns on a stupid old movie when you've waited a whole week to see a spy thriller.

... Expects you to purchase this year's food at last year's prices.

... Accuses his wife of making him fat when he's the one who buys all the sweets.

... Calls YOU skinny, but ogles the other "slender women".

... Will fix everyone's TV set and appliances while yours stay out of order for months.

... Refuses your offer to shine his shoes, then decides to shine them one minute before you're supposed to leave for church.

... Doesn't discipline "your" daughter until she's done something to annoy him.

... Never talks to you until you start reading.

... Fails to shave over the weekend so a goodnight kiss is like sandpaper.

... Never wants a midnight snack until you're in bed and pieces. Chet and David will be reunited. The vaillant amateur broadcasters can get back to their desks and sales meetings. Johnny Carson can pursue his quarrel with NBC. The soap operas can put a little daily agony back into housewives' lives. Life on the tube will be back to normal soon.

half asleep.
... Leaves dishes in the sink when the dishwasher is a few inches away.

... Says the bank NEVER makes the error-wives do—JANE C. Dear Jane: True, true—but how could we ever live without our ever-lovin' rascals?—H.

Dear Helen: I love my wife, but I get the feeling she isn't speaking to me. For a week hurts, and that isn't natural. How can I get her back to her normal, happy, snappy, yakky self?—WHAT DID I DO?

Dear WDD: Your wife is waiting for two little words: "I'm sorry." Hand them to her with a bear-hug and you'll soon find out what hurt her feelings.

She's probably as tired of this false front as you are but won't lose face by backing down. It's up to you, chum.—H.

Dear Helen: I sympathize with the divorcees who write you, I'm on welfare, but will be off as soon as I get my high school diploma and can get a job that will support me and the children.

I'm picked on because I've been married. People make remarks about my welfare checks, but, even worse, if I spank the kids I'm a beast—though when married people do, it's just fine. They accuse me of having affairs—I never have. I'm a scapegoat for my married women friends. One girl stepped out on her husband, made long-distance calls to her boyfriend and when asked about the phone bill, she told her husband I made them. So he cussed ME out, and believed HER! I didn't give her away, but she isn't my friend any more.

Unmarried people don't treat me as a freak, but married ones—wow! Why, why?—GOT THE NAME BUT NOT PLAYING THE GAME
Deat Got: It's tough, but married women often consider divorcees "the enemy." This possibly because they're living examples of what might happen to them. Then, too, "insecurity"—for some wives—is exposing your husband to a manless woman.

Why not spend most of your time with unmarried people if you're happier with them?—H.

Robinson Homers, Orioles Win

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The fashionable Kansas City A's have countered the miniskirt rebellion with a new style of their own, and it was enough to touch off another Charles O. Finley colorful controversy.

The American League doormats of the past have forsaken their former drab existence and Tuesday night stepped into first place wearing white shoes that left the Cleveland Indians kicking.

The A's opened their 1967 season by beating the Indians 4-3 on Fred Whitfield's error with the bases loaded in the seventh inning in Kansas City, and joined Baltimore, California and New York in first place.

The Orioles, looking the same as they did as world champions last season, clubbed Minnesota 6-3 and the Angels dropped Detroit 4-2 to grab their share. The Yankees beat Washington 8-0 Monday.

The only other AL game, the Chicago White Sox at Boston, was postponed because of cold weather.

In the National League, Pittsburgh stopped the New York Mets 6-3, the Chicago Cubs overcame Philadelphia 4-2, Houston belted Atlanta 6-1 and St. Louis blanked San Francisco 6-0. Cincinnati beat Los Angeles 6-1 Monday and the teams were not scheduled Tuesday.

The A's unveiled their fashion show in the first inning when they took the field. Their wedding-gown white, Fort Knox gold and sea-foam green uniforms of last season were a notch brighter, but the main addition was the rare albino kangaroo white shoes with kelly-green laces.

The uniforms, of course, were the idea of Kansas City owner Finley, who in past years stirred the league with his penchant for right field, his mule mascot and his sheep grazing area beyond the outfield.

Joe Adcock, making his debut as Cleveland manager, did not take kindly to the white shoe idea, not that he isn't fashion-minded. Adcock claimed the white shoes worn by Kansas City pitcher Jim Nash distracted his hitters and protested the game after the first pitch.

"I want to get this settled right away," Adcock said.

However, American League President Joe Cronin and Cal Hubbard, supervisor of umpires, already had given the A's permission to start the season with their classy and colorful footwear.

"White shoes aren't going to bother a hitter," said A's Manager Alvin Dark. "A pitcher has both feet on the ground when he releases the ball. A hitter is going to be following the ball, not the shoes."

Whether or not the shoes helped, Nash stopped the Indians on five hits and three runs for seven innings before leaving for pinch hitter Ramon Webster with the bases loaded on two walks and a wild pitch third strike that put Joe Rudi on base.

With two out, Webster grounded to short, but first baseman Whitfield dropped the throw and the A's had their victory.

The Orioles won without controversy in Baltimore as they jumped on 25-game winner Jim Kaat of the Twins for four first-inning runs. It was the same old story of 1966 as Frank Robinson singled home one run and Brooks Robinson homered for two more.

Another carry-over act from 1966, relievers Moe Drabowsky and Stu Miller, saved the triumph by blanking the Twins the last 4 1-3 innings after starter Dave McNally faltered.

George Brunet, a budding Tiger killer, turned back Detroit with a three-hitter in Anaheim as the California Angels opened with a 4-2 victory. The 31-year-old left-hander, beating the Tigers for the sixth straight time, had them blanked until the ninth when Gates Brown homered with a man on.

Don Mincher and Rick Reichardt supplied the punch for the Angels as Reichardt, recovered from a kidney ailment that sidelined him the last part of 1966, doubled home one run and singled before Mincher homered in a three-run fourth inning off loser Dennis McLain, a 20-game winner last year.

Tournament of Champs at Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, who have dominated the last five Tournament of Champions, figure to continue the role when the $100,000 golfing event gets under way for its 72-hole run Thursday.

Palmer bagged the winning loot in 1965-66 and 1962, and Nicklaus was the big man in 1963-64.

The field of professionals numbers 25, each having qualified to compete here by winning one or more PGA-sanctioned tournaments in the past year.

Included is the newly crowned Masters champion, Gary Brewer, who tied for the lead with Palmer here a year ago and lost in a playoff.

Brewer had already qualified for the 1967 T of C, however, prior to his Masters triumph last Sunday. The week before Brewer went on a birdie rampage and won the Pensacola, Fla., Open.

This year's cast is confronted with a different course for the first time since the tournament was inaugurated in 1953 at the Desert Inn Country Club.

With the Desert Inn under new ownership — wealthy Howard Hughes took over — the event was shifted to the Stardust Country Club.

The Stardust course measures 6,625 yards and par is 36-35-71, and is regarded as not quite as difficult as the Desert Inn's 7,200 yards and par 36-36-72.

Palmer, Nicklaus and Art Wall Jr., who won the tournament in 1954, are the only former victors back this year.

Rounding out the field are Bert Yancey, Roberto de Vicenzo, Harold Henning, Frank Beard, Bruce Devlin, Phil Rodgers, Bill Casper, Bobby Nichols, Al Geiberger, Dick Sikes, Mason Rudolph, Don January, Homero Blancas, Don Massengale, Ted Makalena, Jacky Cupit, Bob Goaly, Tom Nieporte, Julius Boros, Doug Sanders and Dan Sikes.

76ers Really Pour It on the Celts

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It may sound strange for a coach whose team scored 140 points to say a game was won with defense.

But that was just what Coach Alex Hannum said Tuesday night after his Philadelphia 76ers buried the Boston Celtics 140-116 to win the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division final playoff series.

"The turning point," said Hannum, "was our over-all defense from the middle of the second period to the end."

The 76ers, who beat the Celtics 4-1 in the best-of-7 competition, earned the right to meet the winner of the current Western Division final between San Francisco and St. Louis.

San Francisco, leading 3-2, meets the Hawks in St. Louis tonight.

The 76ers trailed 53-37 after five minutes of the second quarter. That is where Hannum felt the game turned around.

From that point to the end of the first half, Philadelphia outscored the Celtics 28-17 and sliced the margin to 70-64 at halftime.

Then, at the start of the third period, Wally Jones came alive to hit on eight-of-nine shots and vaulted the 76ers into their first lead.

"This was the turning point offensively," said Hannum, who in 1957-58 coached St. Louis to an NBA title victory over Boston. It was the last time the Celtics were to lose the crown for eight years.

Until Tuesday night, they had won 10 straight Eastern final playoff titles.

The 76ers moved ahead to stay with 3:18 remaining in the third period on a driving layup by Chet Walker. This made it 95-93.

The 76ers then turned the game into a rout as the Celtics went 6-34 without a field goal. They out-scored Boston 40-22 in the clutch final period.

Hal Greer scored 32 points, Walker 26 and Jones 23, but in the final analysis it was the 7-foot-1 Wilt Chamberlain who was the difference.

Chamberlain scored 29 points, grabbed 36 rebounds, handed out 13 assists and blocked seven Boston field goal attempts.

Standing in the 76ers' dressing room, champagne dripping from his head to his toes, Chamberlain grinned, shook his head, and said, "It's been a long time, a long time. It's great."

The Celtics took the end of their championship era in style. They gave all the credit to the winner.

Coach Bill Russell said the 76ers "were the better team in this series."

Red Auerbach, the controversial general manager, said, "We went down swinging. The world is not going to come to an end. We won 18 playoff series in a row. You have to lose sometime."

The Celtics' losing effort was topped by John Havlicek with 38 points.

Mother Sheds Tears, Son Beats Phils

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Tears trickled from the almost sightless eyes of a woman seated near the Chicago Cubs' dugout at the National League season opener in Wrigley Field Tuesday.

They were shed by the mother of Cub pitcher Ferguson Jenkins Jr., who overcame a shaky start to quell the Philadelphia Phils 4-2 with a spunky six-hit performance.

It was the first time Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson Jenkins Sr., of Chatham, Ont., had attended a major league game pitched by their son, acquired by the Cubs as a rookie from the Phils early last season.

"Mother has about four per cent vision in one eye and six per cent in the other," said young Jenkins after his first opening-day start in five pro baseball seasons.

"I know she couldn't see beyond the third-base coach, but just the atmosphere of the crowd thrilled her."

There was more to it than that, explained Ernie Miller, sports editor of the London, Ont., Free Press, who brought Ferguson's parents to Chicago in an overnight drive from Canada.

"We drove down in Fergie's car and brought a lot of his clothes, but we didn't know if we would see him pitch," said Miller.

"When we got to the ball park, we found out Fergie was pitching. Mrs. Jenkins sat quietly when Philadelphia got a 2-0 lead on three straight singles in the second inning.

"But after he weathered a leadoff double and a walk starting the third, then striking out Dick Groat and Richie Allen, Fergie's mother turned on her little radio.

"Tuning after inning, as the crowd cheered Fergie's shutout

Matthews Hits, Astros Beat Braves

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
In his many years with the Boston • Milwaukee • Atlanta Braves, Eddie Matthews used to specialize in great opening-day performances. But it is his debut in a Houston uniform that the slugging first baseman may remember the longest.

A mighty triple against the center field wall in the seventh inning Tuesday night gave Matthews' new club a 1-1 tie against his old one and soon afterwards the Astros had a 6-1 opening-day victory over the Braves.

"Are you kidding," Matthews said later when asked if he'd particularly enjoyed playing a decisive part in beating his ex-teammates. "I'm playing the team I was with for 15 years."

When the Braves traded Matthews on Dec. 31, 1966, the thing that ruffled him most was that the club told the press before it told him.

"I'll remember this opener," Matthews said. "I've had some good opening days. I hit a couple of home runs two or three times in the past in the opener, but I'll settle for this one."

In other National League games Tuesday, all season openers, Pittsburgh beat New York 6-3, Chicago took Philadelphia 4-2 and St. Louis blanked San Francisco 6-0. Cincinnati and Los Angeles had an open date.

In American League opening games, Baltimore bounced Minnesota 6-3, Kansas City edged Cleveland 4-3 and California beat Detroit 4-2. Chicago at Boston was postponed because of cold weather. New York and Washington were not scheduled.

The big blow in the Astros' six-run inning was Aaron Pointer's two-run double. Before the unning Denny Lemaster was pitching a one-hitter, but when he left after tiring, the roof of the Astrodome fell in on the Braves.

Maury Wills showed the change from a Los Angeles to a Pittsburgh uniform hadn't affected his style as he singled twice and stole a base against the Mets. The Mets appeared not to have changed much either, committing five errors in cold Shea Stadium.

A double steal and a pop single by Lee Thomas accounted for two runs in the sixth inning that gave Chicago its triumph. Ferguson Jenkins went the distance for the Cubs, giving up six hits, while Jim Bunning took the loss for Philadelphia.

Bob Gibson struck out the first five men he faced, tying a National League record, and fanned 13 Giants over-all. Lou Brock's three-run homer was the big blast for the Cards, who pounded Juan Marichal for 14 hits, the most he has even given up in one game.

Jackie Robinson: Honest Politician

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Jackie Robinson, assistant to the governor of New York state, is no different from Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn Dodgers, on first base.

Jackie still has a habit of making people nervous. In baseball, he made the pitchers and catchers nervous every time he looked toward second base.

Now, in politics, he makes everybody nervous, including plenty of people in the Republican party.

It has been 20 years since Jackie Robinson broke the color line in baseball.

The years were turbulent, filled with controversy—and excitement. The next 20 years promise to be just as tempestuous because Jackie Robinson is living one of those perpetual motion, around-the-clock lives. Any minute, it seems, he's going to take off for second, wind up at third

"Mr. Rickey kept telling me I would have the fight won when my teammates started to get behind me. 'I remember Dixie Walker, been around the league once by then and the Phillies were pretty abusive.

"I was on first base and the Phillies started yelling at me. Stanky got up in our dugout and started shouting back at them. I don't remember his exact words, but that was the start . . ."

Jackie Robinson is 47 now. His hair is gray, his body still that of the athlete.

And any second, he's going to stretch that lead into a stolen base.

Maple Leafs Are Sitting Real Pretty

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Maple Leafs are sitting pretty in their Stanley Cup semifinal series and if goaltender Terry Sawchuk comes up with the two more hot games it'll mean curtains for the Chicago Black Hawks.

Sawchuk, turning in a second straight excellent game in the nets, led the third-place Maples Leafs to a 3-1 victory over the National Hockey League champion Black Hawks to give Toronto a 2-1 edge in the best-of-7 series.

The Hawks, unable to get rolling, will attempt to even things up in Toronto Thursday night before the scene shifts to Chicago Saturday afternoon for game No. 5.

"Sawchuk's record shows he's the best goalie in the game," said jubilant Toronto Coach Punch Imlach. "If he gives up two more games like that, Chicago's in trouble."

Someone suggested Chicago already is in trouble and Imlach smiled saying, "The trouble they're in now, they can get out of."

"They'll be flying out of the dressing room for Thursday's game and I can't say I'd blame them. It's a mighty big game for both teams."

Stadium Cover Could Become a Model

ATLANTA (AP) — A huge vinyl-plastic umbrella which could be raised in less than three hours to completely cover Atlanta Stadium would be a model for other structures throughout the country, the architects say.

Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. was presented the novel proposal Monday by architects George T. Heery and James H. Finch.

The architects say their solution for foul weather conditions at the stadium would give Atlanta the largest protected playing field in the world — exceeding Houston's celebrated Astrodome in size and spectator capacity.

Atlanta Stadium has a maximum capacity of 57,100.

The architects said the air-supported plastic umbrella

Lawyer Will Promote U.S. Tennis

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Malaga, a 40-year-old Cleveland lawyer who thinks big and gets big things done, has been given the job of promoting amateur tennis in the United States.

The high-strung, nervous tennis official was named Monday to the newly created post of executive assistant to the president of the U.S. Lawn Tennis would involve only one-third the cost of permanent stadium roofs, and the beauty of the design would be its flexibility.

"We can have sunshine for our grass in fair weather and still provide complete protection for fans whenever the rains come," they said.

The plastic covering would be raised into place with a 300-foot telescoping mast in the center of the field.

The mast then would be retracted into a missile-type silo and the covering would be supported by air from a series of blowers situated throughout the stadium.

Association. "I'd like to see tennis move into the realm of golf, baseball and football in attracting big gates," said the balding attorney who has promoted financially successful Davis Cup and Wightman Cup matches. "It can be done — all it needs is a little push."

Malaga's duties in the $95,000-a-year job will be to coordinate amateur tennis throughout the country. He was named to an indefinite term.

"I will spend most of the next six months in the field and then move into permanent headquarters in New York," he said.

Malaga, Ohio state high school champion in 1946 and eight times Cleveland city champion, made a resounding success of the 1965 Davis Cup challenger round matches in Cleveland. He built a clay court and stadium with 7,000 temporary seats on the grounds of a junior high school in suburban Shaker Heights. Every day was a sellout. He raised his $60,000 guarantee to the USLTA and $60,000 television contract, and the temporary seats were replaced by 6,100 permanent seats.

He promoted Inter-zone matches in 1961 and 1962

JACKIE ROBINSON

"... I know I've been honest."

and maybe, with some luck, make it all the way home.

Robinson hasn't lost the appeal of his playing days. In fact he has more now because he is that rare product of our society, a political figure without personal political ambitions. He can afford to be honest.

"People have asked me why I don't run," Jackie said. "But if I ever had a falling out with Governor Rockefeller, I'd get out of this business in 30 seconds. I respect him tremendously. He understands that I can't align myself with every Republican issue. Yet he has never been critical of me while others in the party have."

"You see, I'm not at all convinced the Republican party is dedicated to improving race relations. I know the governor is."

Jackie's official title is special assistant for community affairs. He acts as a liaison man between the governor's office and various city-state agencies: Bureau of Corrections, Narcotics Bureau, Housing Authority, etc.

"I have a relationship," Jackie said, "where a lot of people trust me. They know I won't sell them out. This is my most important asset. Most people know me and they know my motives. Maybe some of the things I've said will cost me, but I know I've at least been honest."

His candor, while new to many politicians, is not surprising to the baseball community. He never has been popular with the hierarchy.

"I don't respect ownership in baseball," Jackie said. "They're still living in the 18th century when it comes to the Negro in front-office activities. All it takes is one owner with the courage of a Mr. (Branch) Rickey to give someone a chance."

"I wouldn't go back to baseball for anything. I'm not one to look back, although I do appreciate all baseball has done for me. But I gave baseball something, too. Neither of us owes the other anything."

Jackie's contribution to baseball is evident in every major and minor league city. The Negro is the dominant figure in the sport. The transition began in April 1947. Now it is complete.

"I never thought about that at the time," Jackie said. "I was too busy making sure Mr. Rickey's experiment would work. The big concern then was the relationship between the men on the team, not the abilities of the Negro and white ballplayer."

one of the most vocal against my coming up, was one of the first to offer me help. I was on the rubbing table and he came over and gave me some tips.

Wills Able to Steal Only One

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It was so cold at Shea Stadium on opening day that Maury Wills only stole one base.

The dapper little ex-Dodger, playing his first game for the Pittsburgh Pirates, contributed a pair of a singles and RBI and a stolen base in Tuesday's 6-3 victory over the New York Mets on a day more suited to ice skating than baseball.

Maury ran his stolen-base total to 10 in 10 games, including the exhibition season, when he hot footed it to second ahead of Jerry Grote's peg in the ninth. ("You don't think they're going to give me the other nine, do you," said Wills in the clubhouse.)

Did Maury think anybody was capable of topping his record of 104 in 1962?

"Yes, my son," said Maury facetiously. Then he got serious. "I don't think my right knee would stand up long enough for me to break the record. If I went at the pace I went in 1962 I would be all shot in July."

Wills runs on his own with the Pirates, just as he did at Los Angeles under Walter Alston, Harry Walker, his Pittsburgh manager, lets him pick his spots.

"I'm on my own unless I prove to Harry that I can't do the job or am abusing the privilege," he said. "Some people say I won't need to run so much with all the hitting the Pirates have. I don't think they really believe it."

"I won't be hesitant to try. The only difference will be I've got to be sure, I just have to make it, I don't expect to get 100 per cent. But I did get 30 out of 31 one year."

Wills, making a new career for himself as a third baseman because the Pirates have a star shortstop in Gene Alley, admits he isn't quite as fast as he used to be.

Special Youth Project Exhibit

Approximately one hundred twenty-five persons attended the Special Youth Project exhibit held in the St. Paul C.M.E. Church Annex at Washington. Three hundred seventy-five items were exhibited by the fifty-six boys and girls enrolled in the project work.

Items exhibited were: hot pads, waste baskets, sewing kits, sewing boxes, bird houses, broom and knife racks, extension cords, aprons, deodorant, bath salt, assimilated match box covers, garment bags and pin cushions.

Thirty-five of the participants received 4-H sweat shirts.

This project work was started November 1966. Mrs. Irene Tollette, Program Assistant, is working with the group.

Says Liberal Democrats Must Act

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
WASHINGTON (AP) — A leader of liberal House Democrats predicted today his party soon will propose changes in major administration programs in hopes of heading off Republican innovations.

Rep. James G. O'Hara of Michigan recently elected chairman of the increasingly influential House Democratic Study Group, said in an interview that the GOP strategy of proposing alternatives for existing administration programs can work only if Democrats stand pat.

"Once we propose some changes of our own, the question becomes whether to accept our changes or their changes," said O'Hara. "Most of the Democrats, including Southern Democrats, are going to prefer Democratic changes to Republican changes."

He cited the antipoverty program, for which Republicans proposed sweeping changes Monday, including dismantling the Office of Economic Opportunity. O'Hara is a member of the Committee on Education and Labor which considers anti-poverty legislation.

"I don't believe for one moment that we're going to go along with the same old anti-poverty program," O'Hara added. "The important thing is to make some meaningful changes."

The Democratic Study Group, an informal grouping of liberal Democrats, claims its membership includes about 145 of the party's 247 House members, including virtually all Northerners and Westerners. Its primary concern is the New Frontier-Great Society domestic program.

"Our major problem is going to be the same as the leadership," O'Hara said.

This includes getting funds to carry out programs started in recent years,

Seemed the Bettors Out of Habit

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It almost seemed as if the bettors had gotten out of the habit of going to the races.

Just 17,136 turned out Tuesday to welcome the thoroughbreds back to Aqueduct after the end of a boycott by members of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association that had closed the track for five consecutive racing days.

The hardy group wagered a total of $1,732,123 on the nine-race card. This compared to the crowd of 26,751 and a mutual handle of $2,830,646 a week ago Tuesday, the last day of racing before the horsemen's boycott for higher purses.

It was a cold and windy day and the usual excitement of an opening day was missing.

Executives of the New York Racing Association were not dismayed, however.

"It's amazing we got this many," said Edward T. Dickinson, president of the NYRA. "With no entries in the morning papers, there was probably a lot of uncertainty about what kind of a program we'd be able to put together."

Dickinson referred to the late hour Monday night that members of the HBPA voted to end their boycott and enter their horses. The NYRA agreed to increase minimum purses from $3,500 to $4,000 and the state promised to reduce its take next year from 10 per cent to 9 1/2 pct.

The failure of the legislature to do that this year irked the horsemen and led to the boycott.

Aden Appears Normal Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
ADEN (AP) — Aden appears back to normal after a week of street clashes between British troops and Arab nationalists in which 16 Arabs were killed.

A strike that closed businesses and paralyzed the port near the southern entrance to the Red Sea ended Sunday. Hundreds of British service families and military personnel off-duty headed for the beaches as restrictions on their travel were removed.

The violence was timed for the visit of a United Nations mission to investigate problems of independence for Aden, promised by the British by next year. The mission broke off its visit Friday.

Spa Leaders, WR to Talk

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, Hot Springs civic and business leaders and a team from the National Park Service will meet here tonight to discuss the future of Hot Springs.

Plans are being proposed to develop the city into a national tourist center under the model city plan recently approved by Congress.

Auto Makers Calling Back Workers

By KARL MANTYLA
DETROIT (AP) — The nation's auto industry today mapped plans to call back thousands of workers laid off because of parts shortages blamed on the trucking shutdown.

A tentative contract agreement, reached early today between the Teamsters Union and the trucking industry in Washington, came too late to prevent several thousand additional layoffs ordered by Ford Motor Co. for today's shifts.

"They'll go back to work as soon as possible," a Ford spokesman said. "It shouldn't take any longer than a day." Ford had planned to idle about 15,000 in five states today.

Officials of General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp. said they were trying to determine when 7,650 laid-off workers at the two firms could be returned to their jobs.

"We couldn't say just when that will be," a GM spokesman said.

The auto makers halted some assembly operations completely and reduced production on a number of other lines because of what they said was a dwindling supply of parts.

Although Teamsters Union haulaway drivers, who ship assembled vehicles from the factory to sales destinations, were not affected by the lockout, hundreds of drivers who haul vital parts to the plants were locked out.

The layoffs began Monday when General Motors idled 5,000 workers at its GMC truck and coach division plant in Pontiac.

Chrysler shut down truck assembly lines Tuesday at Warren, idling 2,000, and at St. Louis, Mo., laying off 650.

Governor's Mansion 'Unsafe'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller said Tuesday night that a fire inspector from the state's Building and Standards Department "has condemned" the Governor's Mansion.

The governor made the statement during his taped television speech, but Edwin B. Cromwell, the architect who recommended improvements to the mansion, said "condemned" is a rather loose word. What Mr. Smalley said was that the mansion was unsafe.

Carl S. Smalley is with the Inspecting and Rating Bureau, who inspected the mansion in January at the request of a legislative committee.

Cromwell was asked by Rockefeller to point out some of the needed repairs on his television program. Cromwell said there had not been a major alteration or maintenance project in almost 20 years. He said that defective wiring and inadequate fire prevention and detection system was what caused Smalley's judgment of "unsafe."

Mao Increases Attacks on Red Presidents

By EUGENE LEVIN
TOKYO (AP) — Mao Tse-tung's forces, reportedly bolstered by a 6-5 endorsement in the Chinese Communist party's policy-making body, stepped up its attacks on President Liu Shao-chi today. It accused him of "eight serious crimes" and charged he was a "traitor."

The new attacks against Liu, already denounced as a counter-revolutionary, indicated Mao may be preparing a criminal action against the 68-year-old chief of state.

Correspondents in Peking for the Japanese newspaper Yomiuri and the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported that the standing committee of the Political Bureau of the party Central Committee had voted 6-5 to back Mao in his struggle to wrest the party and government machinery from Liu and his supporters.

If this information is correct, it could explain the sudden explosion of open attacks against Liu. It could also mean that Premier Chou En-lai, the reputed mediator in China's strife, has swung all the way over to Mao's side.

The New China News Agency told of a Peking rally against Liu and said one of the speakers reported that in 1964 "he had charged the number one party person in authority taking the capitalist road (Liu) with eight serious crimes but had been brutally persecuted by the tiny handful of party persons in authority taking the capitalist road."

The eight crimes were not explained.

The attacks on Liu by official Mao press organs started in the last week of March although he had been under fire in unofficial Red Guard newspapers and posters for months.

Only One to Conduct a Symphony

Junior Rodeo Queen Contestants

By JOSEPH BENHAM
LA PAZ, Bolivia, (AP) — How many students walk out of the classroom and onto the podium as conductor of a national symphony orchestra—via the Peace Corps? The list starts and ends with Gerald Brown.

Brown, 24, was a semester away from his master's degree at the Juilliard School of Music in New York when he heard that the national symphony of Bolivia lacked a conductor.

"It seemed a very rare situation," Brown says with understatement. So he began what has been essentially a selling job.

Convincing the Peace Corps to accept him and send him here; convincing the symphony directors to name him; convincing the musicians to do things his way; convincing the public. The Peace Corps, Brown recalls, had to overcome reluctance to put a volunteer in a job subject to "public consideration," i.e., press and public criticism. Brown persuaded them.

The symphony governors were convinced through an audition last August, a month after Brown arrived. He was named conductor in September.

Selling himself to the musicians, Brown said, "was just a matter of doing a good job." How well he succeeded may be deduced from the musicians' acceptance of an increase in rehearsal time, from an average of two or three hours per week to as much as eight hours of sectional and full orchestral practice. Also, the orchestra grew from 63 to 75 members in the final three months of its season.

The public, which had treated the orchestra with indifference during much of its 25 years, also responded. The final concert was sold out days in advance and scalpers were getting as much as three times face value for tickets.

LBJ Prefers Shirt-Sleeve Diplomacy

By FRANK CORMIER
PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — President Johnson, who seems to prefer shirt-sleeve diplomacy to ceremonial talks, is emphasizing private meetings with fellow presidents at the Western Hemisphere summit.

Although today marked the start of formal sessions, Johnson squeezed two personal conferences into his morning schedule—with Presidents Arthur de Costa e Silva of Brazil and Fernando Belaunde Terry of Peru.

Johnson had similar meetings with 10 summit colleagues Tuesday. Three of these took place outdoors at the temporary White House with the U.S. chief executive and his guests in shirt-sleeves under a warm sun.

It has often been said that Johnson is at his best, and most persuasive, in informal chats that meander along without formal agenda.

That's the pattern here, whenever Johnson can arrange it. Before he goes home, he promises, he will meet each of his summit colleagues on this basis.

Perhaps it is significant that U.S. government officials, briefing newsmen in advance of the President's arrival, predicted that Johnson's informal sessions would be most important.

But no matter how wide-ranging or free-wheeling these meetings are, officials said they were not designed to yield any big decisions.

Discussing Tuesday's informal talks, presidential aide Walt W. Rostow told reporters: "They did not lead to and were not meant to lead to immediate decisions."

However, Rostow fingered a sheaf of papers and remarked, "I have a notebook here full of things to follow up."

Rostow likened Johnson's bilateral meetings to those the President has in Washington with visiting heads of government. They were nearly as long, too, averaging nearly an hour each. In Washington, a great deal of time is occupied by ceremonial.

If big decisions were absent, so too were disagreements, according to Rostow. He said open clashes are as rare here as in Washington or elsewhere.

There was talk of problems, however. The Dominican Republic wants a higher sugar quota from Washington. Johnson listened sympathetically and promised a decision, probably next month.

Feels Redheads Have More Fun Than Either Blondes or Brunettes

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping him on the buddy seat.

Redheads have more fun than either blondes or brunettes because men are more vulnerable to them. No man feels he has lived life utterly unless he has been in love at least once with a red-haired girl.

The greatest exhibitionists among sports enthusiasts are spear fishermen and water skiers.

Few midgets care to have dogs as pets, and the breeds they are least likely to own are Great Danes or Chihuahuas.

Executives who put their feet on the desk while opening their mail rarely get to become head of their firms — except through inheritance.

If you want to cool a romance, the quickest way to do it is to send the girl a small box of salt water taffy on her birthday.

In 20 years soccer will probably be a bigger game in America than baseball.

You can always borrow money from a guy who still carries a pocket watch — but you can't borrow very much.

No matter how homely a fellow may be, if he buys a motorcycle he always seems able to find a pretty girl to ride behind him.

One of the biggest mistakes any married man can make is to let his wife teach him how to run the electric dishwasher.

The odds are at least five to one that the next person over 40 you meet won't be chewing gum.

Most of the people I know who drink black coffee have some other character defect, too.

Among the things about the bleaker sex that puzzles men is why skinny dames usually have bigger feet than plump dames.

After 5,000 years of inventive effort, civilization has finally produced a ball point pen that can write in eight different colors. But why?

Just when we thought we knew all there was to know about sex, we went to see a Swedish motion picture. Now we're starting all over again.

A man who wears a mustache five years will usually keep it for the rest of his life.

Never take a betting tip at a racetrack from a fellow who wears a polka dot bow tie. They're generally losers.

GOPs Plan to 'Explore' Romney

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans plan to explore Michigan Gov. George Romney's presidential prospects and positions and have a look later at those of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, who has stepped into a leadership vacuum among moderate Senate Republicans, said today Romney will be the top guest at a meeting April 19.

He said Nixon will be invited to sit down with GOP members at a subsequent session. He added, "I would love to have Gov. Reagan if he can come."

Gov. Ronald Reagan has said he hopes to become California's favorite son candidate for the 1968 presidential nomination and will not withdraw from primaries in states where the Indiana consent is not required.

Morton said the idea behind the proposed meetings is to have Republican senators who will play active roles in next year's campaign get better acquainted with prospective party nominees.

"Of course, they all know Nixon and know pretty well where he stands on the issues," Morton said. "But some of them have not had a chance to talk with Romney personally and get his ideas at first hand."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said in another interview he thinks the meetings are likely to produce a greater feeling of unity among Republicans.

"There are several viewpoints represented in our party but I believe there is a lot of common ground that can be reached among us which will prevent any division of opinion that would disrupt the 1968 campaign," he said.

Dirksen said there will be no efforts at the meetings to line up Republican senators for any particular candidate.

Morton underscored this, noting that some of the senators involved have been mentioned as possible candidates for first or second place on the 1968 ticket. Among these are Sens. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, Jacob K. Javits of New York and Morton himself.

Wheat Crop Damaged by Brown Spots

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — In parts of Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Colorado fields of winter wheat which would be greening with even a little water are spotted brown.

Farmers of Kansas, the nation's greatest wheat-producing state, planted one-fifth more wheat last fall than they did the year before, but will be lucky to reap a crop even equalling the 200 million bushels of 1966.

The official Agriculture Department crop estimate Monday was that the Kansas yield will be only 197,190,000 bushels.

"There's no question we've been hurt," says Charles W. Pence, executive secretary of Great Plains Wheat Inc., a regional and international marketing organization.

"We've seen years like this and crops like this and then we've gotten rain and come up with an average crop," says J.E. Pallesen, statistician for the Kansas State-Federal Crop Reporting Service. "If we can get normal precipitation now a lot of our wheat would be a fair crop."

The drought affects the western half of Kansas — where the bulk of the state's wheat is grown — and extends through southeast Colorado, the panhandles of Oklahoma and Texas, and western Oklahoma.

While eastern Kansas received up to six inches of rain last weekend, the big wheat counties of Sumner and Sedgwick received only half an inch. Those counties, in south-central Kansas, received only .64 of an inch of rain the first three months this year. The average is 3.28 inches.

When there is sufficient moisture below the ground, young wheat can draw its spring nourishment from there. But subsoil moisture reserves are low because some areas got only 40 per cent of normal rainfall last year.

Bill Crotinger of Tribune, legislative agent for the Kansas Committee of Farm Organizations, had predicted the crop at 189 million bushels on the basis of April 1 conditions. "That area of the state of Kansas, west of U.S. 81, which produces about three-fourths of the state's wheat, is still powder dry," Crotinger said. "The ravages of drought, winter-kill and insects are readily visible in most areas."

Among the Lesser Disasters of the Truckers' Strike

Civilians are like soldiers in one respect: They are never ahead on their vital supplies by more than a few days. But unlike the soldier, who knows he has to protect his supply line at all times, the civilian seldom recognizes a transportation crisis until it's actually on him.

The public already knew about the national tieup in trucking, but it didn't panic until it was faced with the threat of a simultaneous strike on the railroads.

Yesterday the Congress ordered a delay in the railroad strike, but most of the common-carrier highway transports are still idle—and in the long run this could hurt the American economy as much as a railroad tieup.

I discovered the truth when making a telephone check on some photographic film The Star needs in order to proceed with its printing of process color pictures. We can't move until we get this special order; and do you know where it is? It's on a strike-bound Strickland truck somewhere between Dallas and Hope.

Of ordinary supplies we have plenty . . . for now. That's how a national emergency begins: First you are short on special items, but as time wears on you run out of necessities also. Again the military parallel: An army travels on its stomach, and once its supply line is cut it faces immobility and surrender.

We took advantage of the delay in color printing to tackle another operation—the development of color film. And came off yesterday with seven consecutive 4x5 Ektachromes.

This was the only operation not previously performed in The Star Building. Up to now we have been taking color film out of the camera and mailing it to a laboratory in Dallas, to be processed and returned to us as transparencies after a three-day delay.

Yesterday the trick was done in 70 minutes right here in Hope, plus an extra hour to let the transparencies dry.

Eventually you may see these home-processed color pictures in The Star. One is of the azaleas in Miss Olive Jackson's backyard at 321 E. 14th St., a smash color production; the other, a picture of a pyracantha in my "back 40."

For the azalea picture I am indebted to a friend who doesn't know any more about flowers than your editor does. He said I ought to photograph "an amazing rose-bush"! The address was O.K., but Miss Jackson immediately informed me they were't roses but azaleas!

Congressmen Going to Free Show

WASHINGTON (AP) — As many as 60 congressmen plan to attend the Paris Air Show next month as expense-paid observers.

Air Force and State Department arrangements to handle a delegation up to that size came to light in a cable from the State Department to the U.S. Embassy in Paris. It said the department understands a large group of congressional delegates will attend the International Air Show in Paris May 26-June 4.

The cable noted that the Air Force, which has primary responsibility, had asked for help in obtaining 60 single rooms in first-class hotels, plus 30 rental cars with English-speaking French drivers.

The hotels and cars are to be paid for out of counterpart funds earmarked for congressional committees, the cable said.

Counterpart funds are U.S.-owned local foreign currencies which cannot be exchanged for gold or dollars, but which can be used only to meet official U.S. costs within the countries involved.

In addition, the Air Force will provide transatlantic transportation for the congressional observers. The Air Force said it does not yet know how many congressmen will make the trip.

Rejects Suggestion Grissom Might Have Touched Off the Fire

By JACK MILLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency rejected — after tests — suggestions that astronaut Virgil I. Grissom might accidentally have touched off the Apollo spacecraft fire, it has been learned.

The Grissom possibility was raised Tuesday night in testimony by Dr. John McCarthy of North American Aviation Inc. before a congressional panel investigating the accident.

McCarthy said Grissom might have kicked a wire, causing a spark that started the blaze.

A review board probing the fire, which claimed the lives of Grissom and two fellow astronauts, made no mention of possible involvement by Grissom.

A reliable source said the National Aeronautics and Space Administration conducted tests at the Manned Space Flight Center in Houston, Tex., with another astronaut. And, the source said, officials decided it would have been extremely difficult for Grissom to have kicked the wire because of its position under his seat.

"He would have had to have been a contortionist," the source said.

McCarthy, testifying before the NASA oversight subcommittee of the House Science and Astronautics Committee, later told the panel, "I only brought it up as a hypothesis."

Afterward he told a reporter: "It was a mistake to bring it up. It was a possibility. The evidence was burned up."

McCarthy's suggestion drew the ire of two subcommittee members.

Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., said hotly, "I don't think it was a good idea to place the blame on a courageous American who is not here to defend himself."

Rep. James G. Fulton, R-Pa., said, "As a friend of Gus Grissom, I feel I should clear the air."

"In my opinion as an attorney of some years' experience," he said, "there is no scintilla of evidence" indicating Grissom contributed to the cause of the fire.

McCarthy said the possibility existed because of instrument readings showing Grissom made certain movements just before the fire broke out.

McCarthy brought up Grissom in testimony shortly before the subcommittee ended its second long day of hearings at 10:30 Tuesday night.

Rep. John W. Davis, D-Cal., said it seemed clear there was a bad piece of insulation on a wire in the spacecraft and that a test that would have located it was not conducted.

"If it had been done, you would have saved their (the astronauts') lives — isn't that true?" he asked.

McCarthy said Davis was assuming there was a bad piece of insulation.

Seeks Clues in Triple Slaying

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Pulaski County Sheriff's Department pressed its search Tuesday night for clues into the triple slaying Monday of Mrs. Judith Ann Moody, 24, of Cabot and her two daughters.

The sheriff's office reported late Tuesday night that nothing new had turned up although several residents near Cabot reported seeing an unfamiliar car in the area Monday.

One resident said she noticed the vehicle because it made repeated trips up and down the road at a high speed.

105 Die in Worst Bomb Mistake

By JOHN T. WHEELER

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Air Force has reprimanded three of its pilots, docked their pay and temporarily grounded them for the worst bombing mistake of the Vietnam war.

A 7th Air Force board of inquiry cleared a fourth pilot who flew the two-plane strike on March 2. The strike killed 105 Montagnards — mountain tribesmen — and wounded 250 in the village of Lang Ve, in the northwest corner of South Vietnam.

The board of inquiry said the bombing mistake was "inadvertent and the result of navigation errors." It ordered the disciplinary measures against the flight leader and the two copilots who were responsible for navigation. The other pilot was cleared.

The names of the pilots were not immediately available. The Air Force also refused to disclose the amount of pay lost and details of the reprimand — which normally would affect promotion and future assignment of the officers — until expiration of an appeal period.

The Air Force said the three grounded pilots, who are based in Thailand, would go before a flying valuation board in the next week for another review of the incident.

This was the first report of disciplinary action taken against U.S. personnel responsible for a bombing mistake in the Vietnam war. About a dozen such incidents have been reported, with about 500 casualties.

The bombed village was packed with refugees who had fled from Communist-controlled areas. The strike was aimed at a U.S. Special Forces camp overlooking Lang Ve in the mistaken belief it was a Communist fortification.

Both the two-seater F4C Phantoms dropped antipersonnel cluster bombs which missed the camp and fell into the nearby village. U.S. Special Forces men and Montagnard irregulars in the camp fired on the two jets, assuming they were Communist, but one of the camp's machine guns jammed.

An Air Force spokesman said the target on which the fliers had been briefed had almost identical terrain features as the Lang Ve area. He said steps had been taken to prevent recurrence of such an accident but declined to say what these were, explaining they were classified.

The board of inquiry reported that the tactical air navigation system in one of the Phantoms was not working and said the twilight conditions also contributed to the error.

Western Day Scheduled at Hope High

Tomorrow is Western Day at Hope High School in cooperation with the Future Farmers of America and to call attention to the FFA Rodeo scheduled for April 14-15 at the coliseum.

The showdown for the best-dressed cowboy and cowgirl will be at high noon on the front campus. Prizes will be $3 for first place, $2 for second place, and $1 for third place.

Members of the FFA have tickets for the "reasonable low price" of 50 cents for students and $1 for adults.

This year's feature event will be the newly created "goat sack-ing," which involves the combined efforts of a boy-girl team. Each is given a toe-sack and must sack and return a fleeing goat to win.

Among other events to be on the program are bareback riding, bull riding, calf roping, and cow milking.

Grade school boys may enter the "junior bull-riding" and the pig scramble contests, similar to senior events.

Proceeds from this eighth annual rodeo will be used to buy equipment and supplies for the school shop and to finance an awards picnic at the close of the school year.

Relations of LBJ, Congress Good Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is a peculiar time, a kind of moping along time as if Congress was waiting for something more tremendous to come along than it is facing this year.

This isn't because of any trouble with President Johnson. He hasn't been in any brawl with the men in the Capitol. Except for an occasional set-to with a few senators over Vietnam his relations with Congress have been good.

Nor is it a problem of a Congress immobilized by an unbridgeable gulf between liberals and conservatives over extending government social welfare programs.

That kind of gulf was bridged — at least in a basic sense, since there is still picking and pecking on the subject — when Congress passed the Employment Act of 1946.

In that act Democrats and Republicans got together long enough to agree the government had a responsibility for the general welfare, the first time in history that had happened, which made it easier thereafter to put through social welfare programs.

What seems to be happening on the part of both Johnson and Congress is a feeling that the torrent of legislation in the welfare field that they turned out in 1964 should do for a while, at least until it is in full operation.

Perhaps that, along with the Vietnamese war which is dominant in the minds of both Johnson and Congress, explains the rather subdued nature of most of the programs Johnson asked for this year.

Only two of them really come under the traditional heading of social welfare: one calling for the biggest increase in Social Security benefits in 30 years and a proposal to spend $650 million for better health and educational opportunities for young Americans.

Some of Johnson's other proposals were controversial in their own right, and already he has given up on one while success on another looks dubious.

Labor didn't like his suggestion to eliminate the individual Departments of Labor and Commerce and merge their interests in a new department of economics. Johnson has backed off that one.

Many businessmen, and perhaps most people weren't happy over that part of his January State of the Union message asking Congress for a tax increase, effective July 1, through a 6 percent surcharge on personal and corporate incomes.

Johnson's chances of getting it look dimmer now than in January for since then the economy has quieted down.

Some Negro leaders felt he was too skimp on civil rights in his State of the Union message. He made up for that later with a special civil rights message asking for an eventual ban on discrimination in housing, safeguards against discrimination in jury selections and an equal employment opportunity commission.

Congress hasn't acted on that yet but if the section on open housing ever reaches the House or Senate floor the most intense heat wave of the year should sweep over the Capitol.

Here are some of Johnson's other requests: A revision of the military draft, a massive effort to combat crime, legislation to reduce juvenile delinquency, an all-out assault on air pollution, approval of a treaty barring the use of outer space for anything but peaceful purposes, another year of foreign aid, a 12-point program to protect the American consumer and an overhaul of the patent system.

Taken as a whole, this is not an inflammatory set of proposals.

Surprised at Greeting

JANESVILLE, Wis. (AP) — Nineteen-year-old Marcia Baake looked at the copy of the Janesville Daily Gazette and couldn't believe her eyes.

Her husband, Spec. 4 Alvin Baake Jr., 21, wrote to the newspaper from Vietnam asking about the cost of a full-page advertisement.

The newspaper decided to donate the page.

Copyright Law Change Is Approved

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has overwhelmingly approved the first general overhaul of the nation's complex copyright laws since 1909.

Compromise agreements eliminating a section relating to community antenna television — CATV — systems and revising a provision covering juke boxes paved the way toward the 379-29 roll-call vote passing the bill Tuesday and sending it to the Senate.

Hearings began last month before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee. Final action on the bill is expected later this year.

The Senate panel heard sultry singer Julie London demonstrate Tuesday her contention that the new copyright law should provide long-term record royalties for performers as well as composers.

The vehicle for Miss London's demonstration of song styling was the theme song of television's Mickey Mouse Club. She played a recording of that marching song for children, then one of her own which transformed the song into a sad ballad.

The senators said they were impressed.

In other Capitol Hill action, the House Judiciary Committee okayed a bill that could force reapportionment in many states by 1972. The measure would limit deviations in size of congressional districts to 30 percent in 1968 and to 10 percent in 1972.

The House-passed copyright bill extends coverage time for authors, playwrights, composers and lyricists and takes into account technological advances since 1909. For example, it provides copyright coverage for material fed into computers and stored there.

The existing law permits a maximum coverage of 55 years. The new bill extends this to a period covering the author's lifetime plus 50 years, starting in 1969. Copyrights now in existence would be extended to a maximum 75 years.

The revised juke box provision, agreed to in weekend negotiations between the juke box operators and the performing rights societies which represent composers and lyricists, requires each operator to pay an $8 licensing fee per year on each box.

The $4 million expected to come from the nation's estimated 500,000 juke boxes annually would be collected by the Register of Copyrights and split up by performing rights societies.

By dropping the section on CATV, which set up varying degrees of liability for different types of cable systems, the House left the cable television industry subject to a New York federal court ruling that all CATV operations are liable under copyright laws.

CATV operators hope to overturn that decision on appeal. If it is sustained by the Supreme Court, the House may be asked to take another look at the situation.

Thu Doesn't Look Like a Killer

By JOHN T. WHEELER
PHU HUU, Vietnam (AP) — Pham Ba Thu doesn't look like a killer, a political activist and talented propagandist. With his crinkled, shy smile and a hat several sizes too big, he seems boyishly naive and slightly ridiculous.

Only the .45 automatic worn with casual assurance on his hip separates him from the other black-clad peasants of this central Vietnamese village where Thu and other members of a government pacification team operate.

For the Viet Cong underground in this village, Thu is a deadly enemy. Unless they can kill or drive the team out, some member of the team probably will root them out one day.

There will be no high noon shootout between the 59-man government team and the Communists on the dusty, sun-drenched road splitting Phu Huu. Death will come at night by knife, gun and—as it already has—by mortar shell.

Thu and his comrades already have spotted eight Viet Cong in Phu Huu, an impoverished village of nearly 1,000 persons in Khanh Hoa Province.

None has been arrested. The cadre hope they will give away others of the Communist infrastructure that ruled here until the government men arrived two months ago.

The Viet Cong team is organized about like the government one that Thu served as assistant team leader and political officer. Because the government men are fairly well armed and careful, the village Viet Cong are relatively helpless unless they can catch one of the team unawares at night.

Twenty members of the Communist team, the fighters, are roaming with Viet Cong units nearby waiting for the government to pull its regular battalions out of the area. In the past, Saigon always has pulled out regular troops after weeks or months of dull pacification duty.

The pacification cadre almost always has gone just behind the government troops.

This time is different. The government battalions are committed for a year or more, however long pacification here takes. And captured Viet Cong documents show that the Communists consider the cadre to be far better trained and dedicated than those fielded by Saigon in the past. Attacks on government teams and protective government forces also testify to the team's effectiveness.

The 1967 pacification program with 400 cadre teams spread through 50 so-called target ar-

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Last week they gave Boris Karloff a party — the first in his honor during almost a half-century in Hollywood.

The occasion was the release of a Decca album "An Evening with Boris Karloff and His Friends," which features scenes from the actor's films, including "Frankenstein," "Bride of Frankenstein" and "Son of Frankenstein."

The site for the party was natural enough: The Magic Castle, a spooky old mansion off Franklin Avenue where magicians meet. It's a club where diners and drinkers are sometimes joined by vampires and monsters, presumably imitated by Magic Castle personnel.

Karloff seemed at home in such surroundings, and he responded with his usual good humor. Unlike some stars who resent being typed in their most famous roles, the London-born actor — real name: William Henry Pratt — has always spoken affectionately of the cliff-browed monster he first played in 1930.

"I am a very lucky man," he reflected. "Here I am in my 80th year (he'll reach the mark Nov. 23) and I am still able to earn my bread and butter at my profession. I am one of that very small family of the human race who happens to thoroughly enjoy his work. If I didn't enjoy it, I wouldn't go on."

Despite a leg brace to aid an arthritic knee, he maintains an active schedule. He and his wife now live in a London flat and a cottage in Hampshire, but he comes here twice a year for films. During the past year he also made an "I Spy" in Spain and worked with Raquel Welch in "The Sorcerers" in London.

Karloff is now in his 11th year of a Reader's Digest radio program which is carried by 400 U.S. stations. He tapes the daily show wherever he goes.

He had a lively run in recent years making horror pictures for American International, along with pals Lon Chaney, Basil Rathbone and Peter Lorre — "I miss Peter terribly; he was a delightful man and a truly original actor — there was none like him." With the scare film in one of its periodic slumps, Karloff has been enlisted for other American International projects.

"I'm here to finish up 'Before I Die,' which is a story similar to that campus sniping in Texas," he said. "I also hope to get the script of the next film, which I'm looking forward to. I understand it's a jungle film."

He seeks to return 600,000 peasants to government control this year. After eight years of grander projects that ended in failure, many American advisers consider the present goal realistic. There are 10 million living in the countryside, nearly half under Viet Cong control.

Jamaica Gets Prime Minister

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Hugh Shearer was sworn in as Jamaica's prime minister Tuesday after Prime Minister Sir Donald Sangster died in Montreal as the result of a brain hemorrhage.

Shearer, 43, is the youngest prime minister in the British Commonwealth. He entered politics in 1941 via Sir Alexander Bustamante's Industrial Trades' Union and his Jamaica Labor party. Shearer became foreign secretary after Sangster was elected prime minister in February.

Sangster, 55, was flown to Montreal's Neurological Institute last month and went into a coma April 1. Queen Elizabeth II knighted him last week, ahead of the June honors list, when his death became imminent.

Johnson Too Gets Peeved at Critics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Critics in and out of the press badgered and inflamed him all through his presidency. He was called a crook, and much besides. He was ridiculed as the "stepfather" of his country.

He kept quiet about it most of the time in public. In private, with his aides, President George Washington exploded, hesitated about a second term.

One of those closest to him, Thomas Jefferson, later to get his own dose of criticism when he became president, told how the fed-up Washington let go at a Cabinet meeting.

Washington, Jefferson wrote, was in one of those passions he couldn't control, regretted his failure to resign, and said "by God, he had rather be in his grave than in his present situation."

President Johnson gets worked up about the critics, too. In and out of the press. He has been blamed for many things, including a "credibility gap." But much of it is mild compared with what some of his predecessors had to take.

President John Adams said that if he believed his critics he would be the "meanest villain in the world." But his successor, Jefferson, that staunch defender of freedom of speech and of the press, even got hit by Adams, who considered him a calamity.

Jefferson, besides the now familiar "hypocrite," was accused of practically everything from fathering illegitimate children by his slave women to worse.

Shrewd Andrew Jackson wooed the press, and even had three newsmen in his "kitchen cabinet." No good. He got it, too. He was called a murderer and adulterer. President James Buchanan took so much criticism he considered himself the happiest man in the country.

Finds It Pleasant to Lie in Shade and Recall Some of Past

NEW YORK (AP) — Life is like a squirrel burying acorns. The acorns are memories.

Planted in the heart, they take root there and in time become mighty oak trees, and pleasant indeed it is at times to lie in their green shade and recall the past.

When it comes to saving up when his term was up.

His successor, Abraham Lincoln, was called everything from being a baboon to being illegitimate. One hostile newspaper rejoiced at his assassination. The president who followed Lincoln, Andrew Johnson, was called a drunk, starting with the day of his inauguration.

President U.S. Grant had the drunk label tagged on him, too. President Theodore Roosevelt got along with individual newsmen but he resented criticism from wherever it came, and it came often.

That didn't deter him from doing the same to his successor, Woodrow Wilson. Roosevelt wrote for magazines after leaving the White House. Once, when Wilson hesitated about sending troops into Mexico, Roosevelt said he "kissed the blood-stained hand that slapped his face."

When Wilson, three days after a German U-boat had sunk the Lusitania, spoke of "being too proud to fight," Roosevelt called him a "Byzantine logothete" — meaning a high-placed clerk for an emperor — backed by "flubdubs" and "molly-coddies."

Roosevelt himself was described by an Englishman as a combination of "St. Paul and St. Vitus." President Herbert Hoover, like Johnson, was charged with a "credibility gap." President Franklin D. Roosevelt got it from cranks and critics throughout his three-plus terms.

Among other things he was called a Communist, worse than Stalin, and a mama's boy who never earned a dime on his own. President Harry S. Truman didn't take it quietly, like Washington. He hit back.

He called one critic an "s.o.b." and threatened to beat up a music critic who said his daughter's voice was flat. Dwight D. Eisenhower, a war hero before his presidency, wasn't immune, either. But, compared with those before him, he escaped lightly.

It may seem comical now but President John F. Kennedy was called an "extremist." He had a thin skin, spent time trying to track down the origin of criticisms. Once he said wryly: "As I make my views clear on these issues, then, of course, increasingly some people are not going to approve of me."

Other presidents were left out of this account but not because they were not criticized. There wasn't enough room.

memories, every man is his own mias. No other human being in the world can quite match his board, for each collection is unique and personal.

But it is fun to share memories. And you've got a pretty good collection yourself if you can look back and remember when:

A dude was a fellow who wore gray spats and pearl buttons.

In a small town nothing really memorable usually happened except on Saturday nights. During the week you talked about what you had done last Saturday night and what you looked forward to doing next Saturday night.

Every school desk held an inkwell, and sooner or later every young lad succumbed to the temptation to dip into the inkwell a braid from the girl who sat at the desk in front of him.

Only spendthrifts or very wealthy men bought suits that had only one pair of pants.

Nobody thought cigarettes caused cancer, but it was agreed by many that if you smoked them regularly you were pretty likely to come down with tuberculosis, which then was just as feared.

Children didn't expect their parents to keep them entertained. They could spend a whole afternoon happily blowing soap bubbles through an old corn-cob pipe.

It was a mark of real affluence to be able to have a cast iron stag in your front lawn.

You didn't have to be a confectionist to get in and out of automobiles. They had running boards to step on.

When people took a plane trip they took it for granted that they would probably get airsick from bumpy weather sometime during the journey.

A nickel cherry pop was the most popular soft drink in America. But if you wanted to make a big splurge you bought your best girl a 10-cent ice cream soda — just to let her know that when she went out with a real sport like you nothing was too good for her.

If a warm spell came along during a cold winter, everyone sagely remarked, "this is pneumonia weather."

You knew you were in an up-and-coming town when the Undertaker (he also ran the furniture store) sold off his horses and bought a motorized hearse.

A small boy couldn't make up his mind whether to grow up and be the engineer of a train or the conductor who took up the tickets and also, with an air of judicious gravity, would pull a big gold watch from his pocket and tell passengers exactly what time it was — to the exact second.

It was thought that, if there should ever be a second world war, the weapon most to be feared would be poison gas.

American Buys Himself an Island

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — An American millionaire who came to New Zealand for a wedding fell in love himself — with an island. He bought it.

William Reynolds, 27, of the Reynolds tobacco family, Winston-Salem, N.C., flew to Auckland in February for the wedding of his friend, Colin Simms, of Winston-Salem, to an Auckland girl, Victoria Kirk.

A bridesmaid's father took him fishing in New Zealand's Bay of Islands. He fell in love with the bay and especially one of its islands, 115-acre Waewaetorea.

He bought the island Tuesday for an undisclosed sum.

Reynolds, a great grandson of the founder of the Reynolds Tobacco Co., said he intends to make waewaetorea as beautiful as his American home.

Old Faces Are Back on TV Cameras

By JOHN VINOCUR
NEW YORK (AP) — Old faces were back on camera and experienced hands at the controls today as network radio and television put taped reruns in storage boxes and returned to normal operations after its first nationwide strike.

David Brinkley was set to rejoin Chet Huntley and Walter Cronkite, Peter Jennings and Hugh Downs were ready to return to the air in their normal time slots. The Arnold Zerkens and Russ Tornabenes who replaced them during the 13-day performers walkout went back to their management jobs.

Only formal approval from the 18,000 members of the American Federation of Radio and Television Artists was needed to ratify the agreement worked out by the union Monday with ABC, CBS and NBC.

Acceptance by AFTRA's national board of the new contract at 8:05 p.m. Monday resulted in the lifting of picket lines and the broadcast live, two hours later, of the Motion Picture Academy Awards. ABC estimated last year that 70 million Americans watched the Oscar show.

The terms of the agreement pushed the basic weekly wage for about 100 local newscasters at network-owned stations in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles from the current $275 to $300, in a three-year contract retroactive to last Nov. 15. The newsmen also will get 25 per cent of all talent fees retroactive to last March 1.

AFTRA's original demands had been a basic salary of $325 a week, 50 per cent of talent fees now and the full amount of those fees in 18 months.

The union withdrew its position on staffing automated FM radio facilities under which it would have maintained "stand-by" announcers — a system the networks had called "featherbedding."

AFTRA also agreed to a $25 increase over three years for network staff announcers who currently receive base pay of $195. But this aspect of the settlement was considered more one of theory than fact because many of the announcers earn salaries in excess of $30,000.

Spokesmen for both sides appeared generally pleased with the settlement.

Indian Award Goes to Thant

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW DELHI (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant received the first Jawaharlal Nehru award for international understanding today from Indian leaders who praised his efforts for peace in Vietnam.

"I welcome you as the dedicated champion of the world," said Nehru's daughter, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, at the ceremony attended by Indian political and business leaders.

"Much of what the U.N. is and can become depends on the secretary-general."

Powell Is Elected in Harlem

By AUSTIN SCOTT
NEW YORK (AP) — For the second time in four months, the House of Representatives faces the sticky problem of what to do with Adam Clayton Powell, who won a lopsided election victory in absentia in his Harlem constituency Tuesday.

While the free-wheeling congressman fished in Gulf Stream waters off his Bimini Island retreat, 32,000 Harlem voters gave him an 86 per cent margin over his closest opponent, Lucille Pickett Williams, a Republican.

"We've kept the faith, Adam," read pennants flying from the walls of Harlem's Democratic clubs, where votes were tallied.

Unofficial returns gave Powell 27,900 votes to 4,091 for Mrs. Williams and 427 for the third candidate, the Rev. Ervin F. Yearling, a Conservative. The 22-year House veteran, who may be forced to come back as a freshman, lost only 11 of 214 election districts, and those were in a predominantly white corner of his 18th Congressional District.

There was little surprise at the long predicted outcome in Harlem, where community leaders have agreed that the House decision to exclude Powell from the 90th Congress on March 1 was a racially motivated slap which ignored Harlem's wishes.

"I consider this a mandate from the people to go out and elect him every time we need to," said Democratic campaign chairman L. Joseph Overton.

Asked what would happen if Congress again refuses to seat the 58-year-old Baptist minister, Overton said, "We have not planned what we're going to do. We're hopeful that the mandate

Prosecution to Rest in Speck Case

By F. RICHARD CICCONE
PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — The prosecution, after seven days of presenting testimony, plans to rest its case against Richard Speck, the tattooed wanderer charged with killing eight student nurses.

In the seven days, William Martin, assistant state's attorney of Cook County (Chicago), presented through witnesses chronological events of the July 14 slayings and the arrest of Speck three days later.

Martin's case is based primarily on the testimony of two witnesses, Corazon Amurao, who survived the slaughter, identified Speck as the intruder who herded the girls to one bedroom then led them out one by one.

A fingerprint expert testified Tuesday that three prints lifted from the bedroom door were identical to Speck's.

Lt. Edward Glese, who heads the identification section of the Chicago Crime Laboratory, was shown two fingerprint cards with Speck's prints.

One set was taken by the U.S. Coast Guard. The second card was made after the defendant was treated at Cook County Hospital for self-inflicted arm slashes.

Glese compared the cards with a photograph of one of the prints lifted from the door by police technicians.

"I determined," Glese told the jury, "that the ridge characteristics on this photograph are identical with the No. 2 finger on the Coast Guard card."

Glese said the photograph showed 10 points of identity. "In my opinion, 10 to 12 points are necessary for identification."

Other prints taken from the door had 17 points of identity, he said.

James Gromenos, assistant to public defender Gerald Getty, was unable in cross-examination to shake Glese's opinion that the prints on the door belonged to Speck.

Gromenos did show that 12 of the 34 prints found in the house were never identified by police.

Early in its case the state called several witnesses who placed Speck at various taverns and rooming houses in the South Side of Chicago where the murders occurred.

The state contends that the defendant acted like a fugitive before he knew police were seeking him for the murders. Several witnesses told of Speck's alleged flight to the North Side and the 90-cent-a-night beds of skid row.

Five nurses were strangled and three were stabbed to death. Their mutilated bodies were found in four rooms of the townhouse. Miss Amurao, 24, rolled from under one bed to another to conceal herself. She was overlooked or forgotten by the killer.

Rockefeller to Supplement Some Help

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, who mentioned in a television speech Tuesday night that he was willing to personally supplement salaries of some state employees, said that Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell had issued an opinion that the supplements would be legal.

Rockefeller, who reviewed some of the action taken by the 1967 General Assembly in the speech, said low salaries created a problem for hiring qualified men.

He used as an example the proposed salary for the director of the newly created Department of Administration, who would have received $27,500 a year until the legislature cut it to $18,000.

"You could not get the kind of man we wanted in that role for $18,000," Rockefeller said.

Regarding the supplements, Rockefeller said, "Some legislators have thought this was not fair to my successor. Well, I hope we will not have to worry about my successor until after 1970, but in the meantime I hope that you and the legislature will recognize that we must have competitive salaries if we are going to get the job done in a manner of excellence."

Rockefeller said after the TV speech that he had two positions in mind whose salaries he might have to supplement, the director of the Department of Administration and the director of the state Economic Development Program.

Dr. John M. Peterson, a University of Arkansas professor, was named to direct the EDP, but the administration position has not been filled.

THE DOCTOR SAYS
Causes Are Essential Segments of Diagnoses
By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Many times I'm sure my answers to queries disappoint the questioner because of a misunderstanding about what constitutes a diagnosis. When, for example, I read, "My doctor says I have gastritis. What causes it and what is the best treatment?" I am tempted to reply that the word gastritis is not a diagnosis and the cause is an essential part of the diagnosis. Is it an alcoholic gastritis, a gastritis due to an infection (infection with what organism?), or a gastritis caused by aspirin, other drugs or to chemical poisons? The treatment usually depends on an accurate knowledge of the Q—What is Librium?

Could a person who is taking phenobarbital for convulsive seizures also take this drug? Would there be any side effects?
A—Chlordiazepoxide (Librium) is a tranquilizer. It can be given with phenobarbital. The side effects of Librium, when given in too large a dosage, include drowsiness, fainting, nausea, headache and skin rash. Anyone who is taking this drug should have periodic blood counts.

Q—I am taking Librium for my nerves. It helps me, but since I have been taking it my breasts ache. Could this be caused by the drug?
A—This symptom has not been reported as a side effect of this drug. The best way to make sure is to discontinue it for a week and see if the aching clears up. If it does, start the drug again and see if the aching returns.

Never Leave Little Children Alone
As Spring Clean-Up Week rolls around again, the American Insurance Association reminds that little children, as a fire safety measure, should never be left at home alone, for even a minute.
Last year 12,100 persons lost their lives in fires, and more than 2,000 of these were children.
